

Family Tree Essay By: Alessia Pisciotta

My name is Alessia Pisciotta, I'm a 13 year old American-Italian girl and my family is from Palermo, Sicily. Sicily is an island apart of Italy; it's near the tip of the verywhere and little towns here and there. It is also home of Mt.Etna. In Italy there is a warmer climate, mostly agricultural and has smaller town The story of my family immigrating by boat to America started with my mom's parents coming with her in 1966 when she was 3 years old... My mom's name is Francesca Boncimino. My mom's family came for a work related oppurtunity. When they first came they lived in none other than Brooklyn, NY. They came because the had heard great things about the U.S. They could've stayed in Italy but decided to come to America. The people that came from my moms side was her father (name gaspare), mother (named santina), and her. My Grandparents had to unfo leave my mother's sister in Italy because my mom's grandma wouldn't let my grandma take her. When they arrived in America they felt confident and liked it immediately, they hadn't expected what they saw. At the time, they thought it was a good idea. When they arrived, my grandma went to work in a factory and my grandpa went to work with an Import/Export industry. The reason they came here was not because of money problems or work issues like the immigrants in the 1800's. The family that stayed behind felt really bad and missed my grandparents and my mom dearly. But every now and then they would write letters to each other seeing as how they couldn't make international calls back then without spending a ton of money. Of course at times my grandparents would regret coming to America sometimes. In U. they made more money than they did in Italy and it was more productive but there sometimes. In U.S. was more familiarity in Italy.

The story of my dad's side is very short, his name is Francesco Pisciotta. He grew up with the food industry in Italy with his mother & father, Pietro and Giusseppa and his two sisters Caterina and Linda. He came to America because he was engaged with my mom in 1987 when she finished going to college in Italy and spent a couple of extra years there, while my dad had joined the Italian Military and then they eventually got married here in America in 1988. My dad was the only one on his side that immigrated to America, he didn't talk to his family a lot and everyone who stayed behind missed him terribly. He never regretted his decision to follow my mom here but he hadn't had any of his family besides my mother, grandma, and grandpa. Work here was different than the work in Italy so he had to adjust a little bit.

After my parents got married in 1988, they had my brother Pietro, he was born in 1994. I was born three years later on July 30, 1997 . My family and I have been to Italy to visit all the relatives many times and I love it there. I admire my home country because it has a certain quality that makes it so familiar even though I've only been there a couple of times, and my family history isn't big or important but to me it's special and unique.

Indian environmentalist Saalumarada Thimmakka in 2011Born1910/1911 (age 110-111)[1][2][3]Gubbi Taluk Tumkur, Kingdom of Mysore(in present-day Karnataka, India)[4]OccupationEnvironmentalistSpouse(s)ChikkaiahAwardsPadma Shri (2019) Saalumarada Thimmakka, also known as Aala Marada Thimmakka, is an Indian environmentalist from the state of Karnataka, noted for her work in planting and tending to 385 banyan trees along a forty-five-kilometre stretch of highway between Hulikal and Kudur. She has also planted nearly 8000 other trees.[5] With the support of her husband, she found solace in planting trees. She received no formal education and worked as a casual labourer in a nearby quarry.[6][7] Her work has been honoured with the National Citizen's Award of India. Her work was recognised by the Government of India and she was conferred with Padma Shri in 2019. A U.S. environmental organisation based in Los Angeles and Oakland, California called Thimmakka's Resources for Environmental Education is named after her.[8] Central University of Karnataka has announced an honorary doctorate for Thimmakka in the year 2020.[9] Early life Thimmakka in the year 2020.[9] Early life Thimmakka in the year 2020.[9] Early life Thimmakka was born in Gubbi Taluk, Tumukuru District in Karnataka. She received no formal education and worked as a casual labourer in a nearby quarry. The couple could not have children but, they had adopted a son named Surya Prakash. It is said that Thimmakka started to plant banyan trees in lieu of children.[10] The name word Saalumarada (row of trees in the Kannada language) is how she is referred to because of her work. Trees planted by Salumarada Thimmakka along SH94 from Hulikal to Kuduru village Achievement Ficus (banyan) trees were aplenty near Thimmakka's village. Thimakka and her husband started grafting saplings from these trees. Ten saplings were grafted in the first year and they were planted along a distance of 5 km near the neighbouring village of Kudur. 15 saplings were planted in the second year and 20 in the third year.[11] She used her meager resources for planting these trees.[10] The couple used to carry four pails of water for a distance of four kilometres to water the saplings. They were also protected from grazing cattle by fencing them with thorny shrubs. The saplings were planted mostly during monsoon season so that sufficient rainwater would be available for them to grow. By the onset of the next monsoons, the saplings had invariably taken root.[11] In total, 384 trees were planted, and their asset value has been assessed at around 1.5 million rupees.[7] The management of these trees have now been taken over by the Government of Karnataka. [10] The 385 banyan trees planted and nurtured by her came under threat of being chopped down for the widening of Bagepalli-Halaguru road in 2019. Thimmakka requested the Chief Minister HD Kumaraswamy and Deputy Chief Minister G Parameshwara to reconsider the project. As a result, the government decided to look for alternatives to save the 70 years old trees.[12] Awards For her achievement, Thimmakka has been conferred with the following awards and citations: The President, Shri Ram Nath Kovind presenting the Padma Shri Award to Saalumarada Thimakka, at an Investiture Ceremony, at Rashtrapati Bhavan, in New Delhi on 16 March 2019 Padma Shri award - 2019 Nadoja Award By Hampi University- 2010 National Citizen's award - 1995[11] Indira Priyadarshini Vrikshamitra Awards - 1997[11] Veerachakra Prashasthi Award - 1997[11] Veerachakra Prashasth Science and Technology, Bangalore. Karnataka Kalpavalli Award - 2000 Godfrey Phillips Bravery Award - 2006.[13] Vishalakshi Award by Art of Living Organisation Vishwathma Award by Hoovinahole Foundation 2017 Parisara Rathana award Green champion award Vrikshamatha award Current activity Thimmakka is invited to many afforestation programs in India.[7] She has also been involved in other social activity like constructing a tank to store rainwater for the annual fair held in her village. She also has a dream of constructing a hospital in her village in remembrance of her husband and a trust has been set up for this purpose.[7] In 1999, a documentary titled Thimmakka Mathu 284 Makkalu was made on her work and it featured in the 2000 International Film Festival of India.[16] She underwent a hip surgery in December 2020 and was announced to be successful.[17] BBC recognition In 2016, Saalumarada Thimmakka was listed by British Broadcasting Corporation as one of the most influential and inspirational women of the world.[18] Alleged misuse of name Delhi settled comedian, Vasu Ritu Primlani has been accused by Thimmakka of misusing her name. Ms. Thimmakka had filed a private complaint before the Ramanagara Judicial Magistrate First Class (JFMC) court on 9 May against a non-resident Indian, Ritu Primlani, for running the organisation named after her for at least 14 years without her consent or knowledge.[19] In 2014, the High Court of Karnataka adjudicated in Ms Primlani's favour, stating that 'if all the charges against Ms Primlani were true, they still won't amount to a crime', and that this prosecution. See State of Karnataka Vs. Ritu Primlani. Ms Thimmakka had, in fact, met Ms Primlani in 2003, when Ms Primlani had made the effort to visit her, and Ms Thimmakka had stated she was 'delighted' that Ms Primlani had named an organisation more than a decade prior to the allegations.
