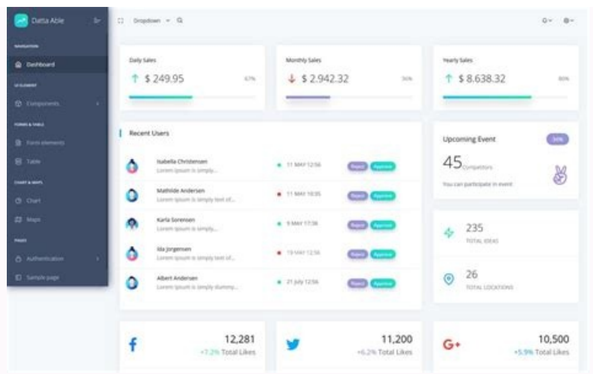
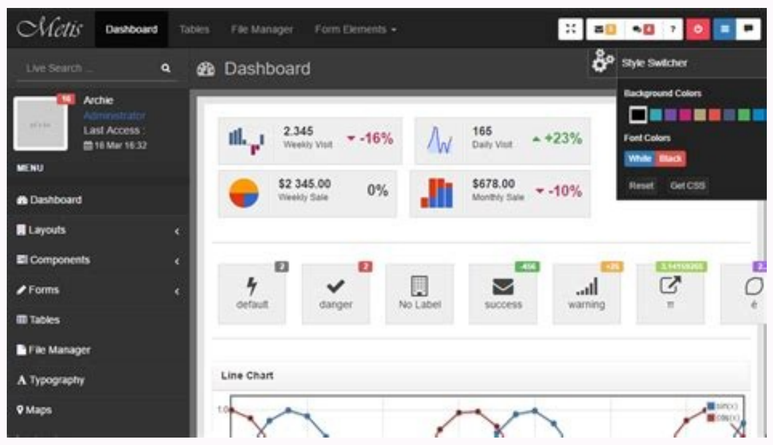
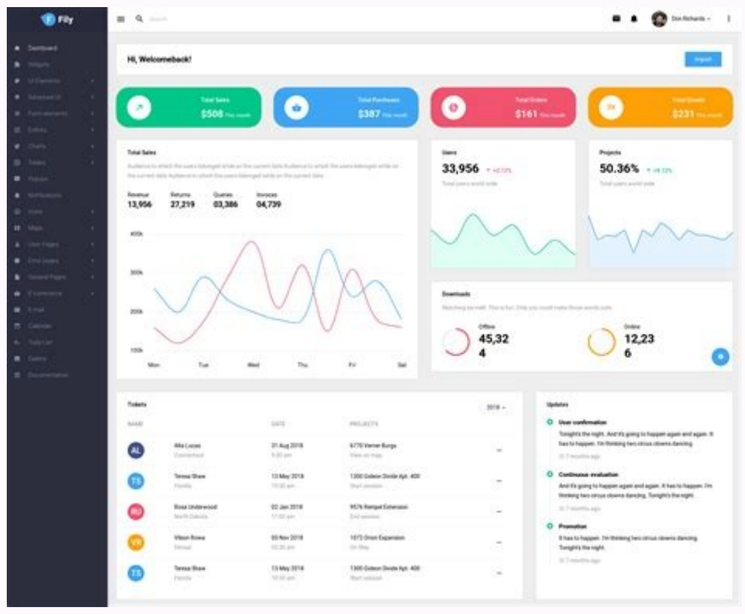
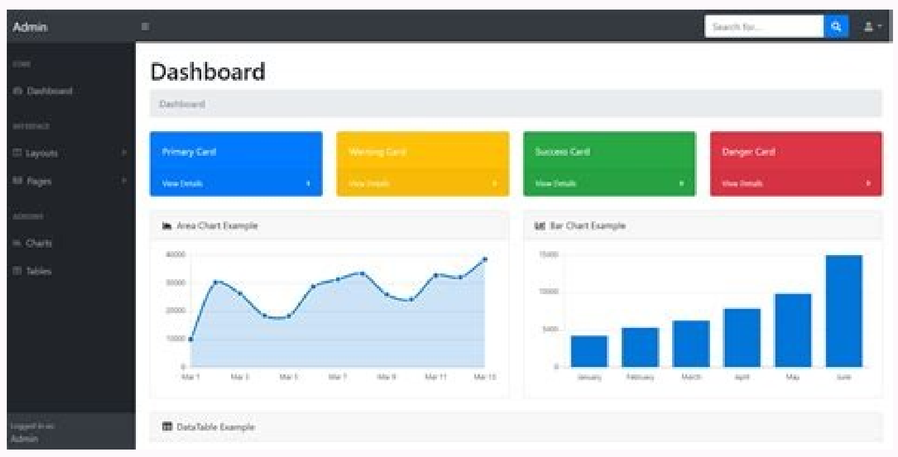
Free bootstrap templates for dashboard

I'm not robot!









Bootstrap, earlier known as Twitter Blueprint, needs no introduction because it’s a well-known web development framework on GitHub. To find your best fit for an admin dashboard template for free doesn’t seem like a complex task, cause Bootstrap has CSS-and JavaScript-based design templates with a variety of UI components that are widely known and used in web app development. Despite the oversaturated market in web development, Bootstrap themes and templates remain one of the most sought-after products among front-end developers. Bootstrap framework is used by 26.9% of all the websites; among them such valued brands like Netflix.com, Cnn.com, Espn.com, and Udemy.com. Admin dashboard templates strong suits What are the indisputable components of a robust admin dashboard template? How to choose your optimal platform for better work and high performance? We’ve defined a list of fundamental principles of a good admin template: UX design quality By this, we mean that the hierarchy of elements matters. The structure of the components on the page, plenty of space, the contrast in colors for easy text comprehension, some decent logic that will hint to the customer to intuitively make this or that action on the page. Good design is design that evokes emotion, nevertheless B2B or B2C design should be both emotional and rational. Visual hierarchy is the key that leads the user through the site satisfying their customer needs and your commercial ones. Suitable front-end framework It’s up to you to decide which technology fits your best: trendy React or familiar Bootstrap or Node. But we’d go on the framework with which you feel most confident. Updateability An admin template should have frequent updates. An up-to-date theme will be more secure and will benefit from any new features. A number of custom features, additional pages (e.g. profile page, inbox page, etc) The admin template may be given some unique feature that makes it stand out from the crowd. Reasonable price Good admin templates can be priced higher without sacrificing customer interest in them, while bad admin templates can’t be. Bootstrap framework benefits If you are unsure what technology to choose for building your website, Bootstrap has some clear benefits for your multiple possibilities. Flexible in development, the front-end framework has numerous HTML and CSS templates, validation styles to state warnings, and last but not least support various JavaScript extensions. Websites built using Bootstrap technology will display the same in all modern browsers. Bootstrap is the real way to build your site and mobile app fast since designing all of the front-end pages from scratch will be a pricey and time-consuming challenge, to say the least. Thanks to its clear code, Bootstrap can be quickly learned by a novice. Bootstrap is a proven and self-sufficient way to save time developing your web application and make the UX design quick. Bootstrap is a modular framework. Its real advantage is a huge number of ready-made well-designed components and a series of LESS files. The ability to customize templates for your project is achieved by changing the SCSS variables, and the low threshold of entry; to work with the framework you don’t need to be a genius of HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and jQuery.
